

https://richmond.com/business/article_b048d671-6250-591a-ab1b-04b8b341170e.html

Panelist at commercial real estate forum discuss Richmond's increasing number of new apartments and its low office vacancy rate

Gregory J. Gilligan

Feb 18, 2020

Panelists were Malcolm Randolph (left) of Colliers International; Nicki Jassy with Cushman & Wakefield | Th Williams with Commonwealth Commercial Partners; Eric Phipps of SNP Properties; and Nick Patel with Kaly GREGORY J. GILLIGAN/TIMES-DISPATCH

Gregory J. Gilligan

With thousands of apartments planned for Scott's Addition, Manchester and other parts of Richmond, can the market absorb all of that new multifamily development?

People are also reading...

- 1 UPDATE: Birthday celebration turns into tragedy after Shockoe Bottom fight ends in gunfire
 - 2 CoStar Group announces layoffs amid its shift to AI strategy
 - 3 SocialBoom.io Launches Service to Buy Instagram Views Safely
 - 4 Eazzy Burger appeals directly to customers for help as sales slump
-

ggilligan@timesdispatch.com

(804) 649-6379

By Gregory J. Gilligan
